Becoming a Niddah

How does a woman become a Niddah mid'Oraisa¹

Simon 183: A woman who sees a drop of blood must wait Shiva Nekiim².

SEIF 1

A woman who had a discharge of blood coming 1) out of her Mekor³, whether it was (1) by accident or naturally, is Temea - impure 2), but only if she experience a Hargasha⁴ of the discharge. However, once she feels that it (the blood) is removed from its place (in the uterus) and came out (into the vagina) she becomes Temea (2), even though it didn't come out outside (of the body). Even if she only saw a drop of blood 3) the size of a mustard seed, she must wait on it (before being allowed to immerse in a Mikva – ritual bath) 4) Shiva Nekiim².

Rama: According to their rules which will be clarified in Simon 196. There is no difference between a single woman and a married one regarding the prohibition of Niddah (Rivash Simon 422, reported by the Bait Yossef) since anybody who has relation with a Niddah is subject to Kares⁵

¹ According to the Torah.

² Seven days of cleanliness, they will be explained in depth in Simon 196.

³ Womb, uterus.

⁴ A feeling, a sensation directly related to the bleeding

⁵ Punishment of being cut off from the people of Israel.

THE MECHABER SAYS

A woman who had a discharge of blood coming 1) out of her Mekor,

The Torah writes (Vayikra 20, 18): “she has revealed the source (Mekor) of her blood”. Mekor means the uterus and therefore our sages (Torat Kobanim Metsorah 6, 4) learnt that only blood being discharged from the uterus render the woman Niddab. (See Sba”ch 1.)

THE MECHABER CONTINUES

Whether it was (1) by accident or naturally.

Contrary to a man who only becomes Zav if his seminal emission was accidental, not if it was caused by natural causes such as having eaten too much and the like, a woman always becomes Temea whenever Dam is discharged out of her Mekor, no matter what has caused the bleeding. Naturally refers to the normal period, while accidentally means that the blood came out for an unusual reason such as having jumped....

THE MECHABER CONTINUES

But only if she experiences a Hargasha of the discharge.

The Torah writes in the passage of the Niddab (Vayikra 15, 19): “Blood will be discharged binsarah, in her flesh. The Gemara explains that this word binsarah means that a woman only becomes Temea if she has a Hargasha. The wording “in her flesh” means that the woman felt in her flesh that she was experiencing a discharge. In case a woman would find blood without having felt anything, without a Hargasha, she will not be considered Temea according to the Torah (mid’Oraisa). However, as explained in Sba”ch 2), *mid’Rabanan*⁶, she will be Temea if she will find blood without any Hargasha, through a Ketem, stain, and will be studied in Simon 190. Our Simon deals with discharges rendering a woman Temea mid’Oraisa. The exact nature of what is considered a Hargasha will be discussed beEzrat Hachem later in this Shiur.

⁶ By rabbinical institution.

However, once she feels that it (the blood) is removed from its place (in the uterus) and came out (into the vagina) she becomes Temea (2), even though it didn't come out outside (of the body).

From the same word bivsarab, in her flesh, chazal also learnt that the woman becomes Temea, impure, as soon as the blood leaves the Mekor (uterus) and enters the Prozdor (vagina). The blood doesn't have to be actually found to cause the Touma - impurity. Once it is bivsarab, in her flesh, i.e. in the prozdor, she is already Temea.

THE MECHABER CONTINUES

Even if she only saw a drop of blood 3) the size of a mustard seed, she must wait on it (before being allowed to immerse in a mikva 4) Shiva Nekiim.

There is no minimum of blood necessary to render the woman Niddab. Even less than the size of a mustard seed would make the woman Temea mid'Oraisa (if there was a Hargasha). (See Sha"ch 3)

THE RAMA ADDS

There is no difference between a single woman and a married one regarding the prohibition of Niddab.

The Gemara (Niddab, 31:B 5th wide line) teaches:

Rabbi Meir says: "why did the Torah say that the Niddah is forbidden for seven days? Since he is getting used to her and disgusted by her, therefore the Torah said that she should become Temea for seven days in order that at the completion of this period of abstinence she should be appreciated by her husband as of the day of their marriage".

In light of this piece of Gemara, one may think that the laws of Niddab only apply to the married woman. The Rama, therefore specify that it is not the case, that the laws apply indifferently for single or married woman. The only stringencies we find in married women concern rabbinical decrees like passing an object to his wife Niddab. They do not apply to other women and will be studied in Simon 195.

⁷ Literally the antechamber, i.e. the vagina.

What is a Hargasha?

There are five type of situations which may be considered a Hargasha and therefore render the woman Temea mid'Oraisa if along with the Hargasha we found blood. [If there was a Hargasha but no blood was found, we will have to decide if we should suspect that there was in fact a small bleeding that wasn't discovered. We will discuss this in Simon 190, 1]

The 5 types of Hargasha:

1. A shivering.
2. The feeling of the opening of the Mekor.
3. A sensation of liquid flowing.
4. Discovering blood through a *Bedika*⁸ (or after urinating or intercourse).
5. The onset of a regular period.

1. A shivering.

The Rambam (hilchos issourei bia 5, 17) describes the Hargasha as a shivering, meaning that the woman felt either the pinch you get when you start bleeding or a sensation similar as the one one feels as she starts urinating. There is no question that such a Hargasha renders the woman Temea mid'Oraisa. (This type of Hargasha is rare nowadays.)

We should not confuse this type of Hargasha which is directly related to the bleeding (the woman feels something which is part of the actual bleeding) with other symptoms which often accompany the periods. Very often a woman will have stomach cramps, specific headaches or other symptoms before or during the onset of a period. They are called veset hagouf, lit. body-pattern, and might help determine when is the woman expected to have her next period (see Simon 189, 19-26), but they are not a Hargasha as they are not a sensation of the actual bleeding.

⁸ Bedika means checking. At different times during her cycle a woman must check her status by doing a Bedika, i.e. inserting a piece of cloth deep in her vagina and carefully applying pressure all around it to gather any trace of blood which may be there. This will be explained in Simon 196,6.

2. The opening of the Mekor.

The Shulchan Aruch, Simon 190, 1 describes the Hargasha as the sensation of the opening of the cervix due to the bleeding. This Hargasha also, unquestionably, renders the woman Temea mid'Oraisa but is rare today.

3. A liquid flowing.

If a woman feels a liquid flowing down in her vagina, some hold that this constitutes a Hargasha (Noda biyhuda Yo'd 55 D"H oumeata), However others (Chasam Sofer, Responsa 145) disagrees strongly. Those who disagree hold that since the Touma only occurs at the moment blood passes the cervix, the later hargasha of feeling the blood flowing cannot render the woman teme. Therefore, that Hargasha does not render the woman Temea. The Chavos daas holds that the sensation of flowing has the status of a Hargasha but only if the woman feels it in the cervix, not later in the vagina.

The Noda biyhuda on the other hand argues that the requirement of a Hargasha, was inferred from the word bivsarab, in her flesh, which refers to the vagina not the uterus. In any case, it is only the sensation of the flowing which constitutes a Hargasha, not just the feeling of being wet. Thus, if a woman feels wetness in her vagina and finds blood there, she is not Temea mid'Oraisa. In Higros Moshe, Rav Moshe Feinstein is Possek like the Noda biyhuda, the sensation of blood flowing constitutes a Hargasha.

Bedika

When a woman experiences a Hargasha, she must make a Bedika, checking.

1. If she finds blood on the piece of cloth, the Eid used to make this Bedika she is then certainly Temea mid'Oraisa.
2. If she finds another substance on the Eid and no blood, we'll say that this substance was the cause of the Hargasha and she is still Tebora, pure.
3. The case when she doesn't find anything on the Eid will be studied later in Simon 190, 1.

Very often, a woman will think that she is sensing some wetness in her vagina. As we stated already a sensation of wetness doesn't constitute a Hargasha, and therefore doesn't require a Bedika. However she may be uncertain whether it's only a sensation of wetness or a real Hargasha of something bleeding. This often is the case when a woman is nervous or expecting to have her period. The easiest way to circumvent this problem may be to require this woman to make a Bedika. Of course, if she'll find blood she will become Temea. However, if she'll find something else, i.e. some mucus, she will remain Tehora. If three times on a row, a woman will feel a flow in her vagina, make a Bedika but still remain Tehora, she will have established that this feeling is irrelevant for her and she will be able to disregard it next time it happens. For this woman it won't be considered a Hargasha.

4. Through a Bedika.

The Acharonim debate the question to know what the status of a woman who makes a Bedika and finds blood on the Eid, but didn't experience any Hargasha. Are we going to say:

- a) That since she didn't feel anything she is not Temea mid'Oraisa
- b) Or should we rather say that the bleeding that she found did come with a Hargasha, but she didn't distinguish it from the feeling of friction of the Eid in her vagina while doing the Bedika.

We suspect that there was in fact a Hargasha but that she wasn't aware of it because she confused it with the Hargasha of the Bedika itself. Many Acharonim [(the Kreisi uplesi (Tiferes Yonoson 183,1), the Sidrei tabara (183,2), and the Chavos daas (190,1)] consider the possibility of this "hidden" Hargasha and are Possek, rule, that this woman will be Temea mid'Oraisa in accordance with the rule of *Safek deOraisa leChumra*⁹.

The reason we suspect this woman to have had a Hargasha even though she didn't feel anything is based on a principle brought by the Rambam (hilchos issurei bia 9, 1) that Chezkas Damim beHargasha meaning that as a general rule (in most cases) when blood is discharged from the Mekor it is associated with an Hargasha. Of course, when a woman finds blood on her clothing or on her flesh and doesn't remember having any Hargasha, we have no choice but to conclude that the blood came without a Hargasha since we have no other way to explain the presence of the blood. We are therefore forced to say that an exception occurred.

⁹ Rabbis of the later generations, from the 16th century and on.

¹⁰ In case of doubt, the general rule is that concerning rabbinical questions we can be lenient, but in Torah questions we must take the most stringent view. In our case, we must adopt the view that the woman had a Hargasha since in this case she would be Temea mid'Oraisa.

However in our case when the blood was found through a Bedika we are able to validate the principle of Chezkas Damim beHargasha by saying that the blood came with a Hargasha and explain her not feeling it because of the other feelings due to the Bedika.

The same reasoning would apply if a woman would discover blood during intercourse or after urinating. This latest case will be studied in Simon 191.

5. Regular period.

Based on what was previously said regarding Chezkas Damim beHargasha, some Acharonim (Aruch Hashulchan Simon 183) hold that any time a woman experiences a regular period, even if she doesn't acknowledge any Hargasha, we must still say that she had a Hargasha that she wasn't aware of.
